■ DREAME, the founder of the Big Dream, the UK Embassy in Israel, the Embassy of Nepal, the Ramon Foundation, the Peres Center for Peace and Innovation,

ZAZ10TS, the EMIS school and the Malchut Production House and Creative Agency last week joined forces to celebrate International Peace Day at a trilingual event – English, Hebrew and Arabic – at which views were shared in discussions, meditation, music and art. The event took place at the Peres Center in Jaffa where participants of different ethnic, national and religious backgrounds expressed their thoughts about a sustainable regional peace, which was the common dream, of adults and youth.

The event initiated by Sharonna Karni Cohen, cofounder of Big Dream, and Lotte Beilin, cofounder of Malchut Productions was held in a large sukkah built from recycled materials. The sukkah was decorated with numerous works of art reflecting individual, community and national dreams.

On February 2, this collective artwork will be projected at locations such as ZAZ10TS Gallery in Times Square, New York, the Peres Center, the Old Royal Naval College in London; and as a result of collaboration with the Ramon Foundation, on the International Space Station as part of the “Sky” mission in which Israeli astronaut Eytan Stibbe is participating.

Peres Center Director-General Efrat Duvdevani said “Peres used to tell the younger generation to dare, to imagine, to think outside the box and always dream big. Shimon Peres and Ilan Ramon shared a common dream to dare and break the boundaries of the Earth... They inspired us to be optimistic, to dream big, and see innovation as a tool for a better world. It is an honor for us to take part in this unique project.”
